CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE

Drawing Closer as a Network

At the end of our 2006 report I wrote, "We hope that 2007 will draw us closer as a network and enhance our capacity to work effectively together on behalf of human well-being and sustainable development." Through the hard work of many dedicated people, our hopes have been fulfilled beyond our expectation. The two meetings we held in England in January and August showed how our network is becoming an international family where we can share experiences, support each other, discussed tricky issues and set goals.

As a result of good preparation we passed without difficulty a new Mission Statement, Guiding Principles and Donor Bill of Rights.

In 2007 our office team came together, headed by Virginia Thomas. We owe many thanks to Simon Bland who left us in August after 13 years of devoted service as the office administrator. Samuel Chapleau became the bookkeeper at the end of September and Cassidy Sterling from Boston, USA joined in September as our new office administrator. Rosanna Hille contributes her in-depth experience, as communication coordinator and continuity advisor. As Chairman it is a joy to work with such able, experienced and open-hearted professionals. I would like to extend, a huge thank you to all of the office team, Board and also to the many volunteers who assist us with translation, administrative tasks and by representing us at the United Nations meetings.

At our AGM in August we accepted the retirement of Bardolf Paul, Executive Director of Yayasan Tambuhak Sinta and Ariana Susanti, Chair of SD Indonesia. In their place we welcomed new Directors Lawrence Leetz from SD Holland and Haris Wolfgang from SD USA. Arnaud Delune was re-elected for a second term, and we are grateful for his deep commitment and significant efforts to support our SD work and projects in the Democratic Republic of Congo, among other countries.

To support the executive office team the Board created sub-committees to address specific issues (finance, fundraising, personnel and investments) and each director has taken on tasks and regional responsibilities. We have begun holding board meetings by conference call and this has allowed us to work closer as a Board. In each region, SDIA Directors are engaged directly with members and their activities, attending meetings and visiting when possible. Both Paloma de la Viña and Lawrence Leetz have also visited members in South America. This connection helps to make the Board more aware of local realities challenging our members in their development and humanitarian work.

In 2008 the credit crunch, soaring oil and food prices, increasing pollution and green house gases, and pressure on natural resources make our world look like a very dangerous place. As a small global network we face all these challenges head on in the many communities with whom we work. Given the inner direction and commitment of so many talented and devoted people and strong support from our donors, I believe SDIA will continue to make a unique and increasing contribution to empowerment and wellbeing around the world.

Shirley Boardman

A YEAR IN REVIEW

Towards our Goals in 2007

SDIA is an association of SD national organisations (voting members) and SD projects (associate members) who, together, give our Board and Office their goals and general direction. SDIA's current goals originated at the Bangalore Annual General Meeting (2006) and have been refined and reconfirmed at two member meetings since then. They are expected to take us through to the Subud World Congress in New Zealand in 2010. SDIA's Office acts as secretariat for the Network, and supports the attainment of common goals through services and initiatives in four key areas:

- Outreach, Networking and Learning
- Support to Member Initiatives
- Links to Other Organisations
- Research and Publications

This report highlights achievements of the SDIA Office and Board in these four service areas.

Outreach, Networking and Learning

Members' Meetings: Two main learning and networking events were organised by SDIA in 2007. In January, members of the SD Network from eight countries began the year with a meeting in Lewes, UK, when they shared their understanding from their Susila Dharma work, re-confirmed goals and objectives for the SD Network for 2007, and met with the new Executive Director, Virginia Thomas. A comprehensive report of the proceedings called "Widening our Footprint" is available on the website.

In August the Annual General Meeting brought members from sixteen countries together again in Ascot, UK. SDIA and its SD Nationals raised funds for and facilitated the successful visa applications of Marcela Moreno (SD Colombia Chair), Charlotte Ndona Muini (SD DR Congo Chair) and Valliamal Krishnaswamy (SD India Chair) to attend these meetings.

The meetings provided an opportunity for the SD Network to share experiences and learning from its development projects and practice around the world. Among other events, a workshop on proposal writing was presented and small working groups met to discuss a range of common issues and challenges. A jointly developed Action Plan for working in the Democratic Republic of Congo strengthened our ability to cooperate and achieve sustainable growth and development in that country.

SDIA members elected new directors and approved financial statements, a new Mission Statement, a set of Guiding Principles for the Network and a Donor Bill of Rights. Such events brought us a long way towards achieving our goals of improving communications and information sharing between members, and of building a common vision, mission and approach as an international network.

SD Network

Guiding Principles

A Vision of Development

- We give priority to the needs, aspirations and participation of the individuals and communities on whose behalf we are working.
- We recognise the importance of fundamental human rights, environmental sustainability and work to advance the UN Millennium Development Goals.
- We understand development as a positive process of human, social, cultural, environmental, economic and political transformation.

Community Participation and Knowledge Sharing

- We are committed to participatory and inclusive approaches to development.
- As a network we freely share our information and knowledge, continuously learning from each other and from the communities we are trying to assist.
- We base our decisions on mutual understanding and respect.
- We aim to learn from our mistakes and value our success, no matter how small.
- We are committed to monitoring and evaluating our activities in order to continually improve our development practices.

Partnerships

- Partnerships form the basis for trust and sound development practice.
- Our partnerships respect one another's autonomy and constraints and are built on honesty, accountability and transparency.
- All partners strive for better understanding and appreciation of one another.
- We reach out to and work in collaboration with institutions that share our aims and objectives.

Transparent and Accountable Management and Reporting

- We are committed to transparent and accountable reporting, both between members of the network, and towards beneficiaries, donors and the general public.
- We seek to identify the appropriate scale and terms of financial support on a case by case basis.

Personal Responsibility

In addition to being well-informed and learning from others, we strive to trust our own perceptions and follow our inner feelings as development practitioners.

Ascot, 2007

SDIA Website: At the Lewes meeting, SDIA members requested that the office review and redesign the website to facilitate information sharing and networking, and to enhance our public image. We have been working on this project throughout the year to create a more effective website that will support our members with information of interest to visitors of all ages, project management tools, and a shared global identity. The new SDIA website is scheduled to be launched shortly before the SDIA 2008 AGM in Colombia.

Youth and Volunteering: One of our goals is to facilitate the participation of Subud members of all ages, especially younger members, in Susila Dharma activities. To achieve this, SDIA works to help volunteers identify Susila Dharma projects that would benefit from their labour and skills. This year, among other efforts, the office helped a young ethnographer from France link up and volunteer with Asociación Vivir's Systematization Project. She was also coached to define her thesis for her M.A. in Anthropology, a project that will permit her to return to Vivir and use this as a case demonstrating the importance of incorporating traditional knowledge and beliefs into public health policy. SDIA also works with an initiative of SD France called "Volunteers without Tears", helping to coordinate easier participation by volunteers.

Visits to Member Projects: Site visits to member projects and organizations strengthen our network and to that end SDIA Board and staff try to visit members as often as possible. Virginia Thomas visited SD Colombia and most of the Colombian Projects in March. A publication on the website called "Working with Community" gives a detailed report on this visit. SDIA Board members and staff participated in a number of SD national meetings in Argentina, Australia, Canada, France, the Netherlands, Norway and the USA, to which they provided information and shared experiences from the international level.

Support to Members' Initiatives

Capacity Building in Project/Organizational Management: Capacity building of SDIA members is one of the main goals of the SDIA board and office. This is achieved by providing technical assistance, tools and small grants specifically for enhancing the management of member projects and initiatives. During her visit to Colombia, Virginia provided technical support to project leaders and information on the state of projects with other members of the network. SDIA was able to provide travel funds through which SD Colombia was, in turn, able to provide support to projects in that country.

Board member Paloma de la Viña visited a number of projects and the national SD committee in Argentina to provide technical support, advice and assessment. SDIA published two reports after her visit: one on the projects in Buenos Aires, and a second based on her visit to projects near Mina Clavero. SDIA and SD USA provided funds to help an Argentinean project to legally register as an NGO as a means of ensuring its continuity and viability.

The Office began a project to create and share tools to enhance project management: proposal-writing, implementation, monitoring, reporting and evaluation. The goal is to provide our members with a series of guides in English, French and Spanish, to help them understand and adopt good practices in the area of project planning, promotion, monitoring and evaluation, financial reporting, and auditing. These guides are being shared with members via our website and, in 2008 they will be distributed through a series of project management training workshops.

The Office worked with a number of projects to improve the quality of their funding proposals and reports, and helped conduct research into alternative energy in D.R. Congo, as part of a proposal. In addition to assisting projects, SDIA also provided management support to SD Nationals' organizations, particularly in Colombia, Argentina, DR Congo and India.

The Office developed terms of reference for an evaluation of the grants provided by the Blond Trust and SDIA for the YUM Cipanas Children's Village in the first part of 2008. The general interests of SD nationals were incorporated into this evaluation. SDIA also funded a needs assessment for YUM projects in Central Kalimantan. Our thanks to the Blond Trust for their financial and conceptual support for SDIA's work in strengthening project management, and particularly our monitoring and evaluation initiatives.

Fundraising: Funding applications were completed and the coordination of SD Network resources was carried out on behalf of twenty projects in Africa, Asia and Latin America. In 2007, the Office began sharing member grant requests via the website, once it was satisfied with the information presented in a proposal.

The Office also continues to provide assistance to SD Nationals in their fundraising efforts. In 2007, the office helped prepare photos, presentations and posters for SD nationals to assist in their fundraising efforts at the national level. SDIA began working on its Enterprise Sponsorship Program (ESP), enabling us to join forces with businesses who want to participate in the SD Network and demonstrate their social responsibility by directly supporting SDIA programmes, projects and activities.

Grants: SDIA administered $118,168 in grants designated for specific projects in:

Africa — $28,772, primarily to four projects in DR Congo

Asia — $44,698, to two projects in India and eight activities in Indonesia

Latin America — $44,633, to projects in Argentina, Brazil, Colombia and Ecuador.

Indonesia Flood Relief: In February 2007, 340,000 residents of Jakarta were displaced by massive flooding. SDIA raised $13,900 to assist SD Indonesia and Yayasan Usaha Mulia (YUM) in their efforts to mobilise volunteers and provide emergency relief (supplies and powdered milk) to thousands of urban households. As flood waters receded, our members were also engaged in significant clean up and reconstruction activities to salvage and repair homes caked in garbage and mud.

Linking with Other Organisations

SDIA is privileged to be an international NGO with Special Consultative Status with the United Nation's Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC), UNICEF and Department of Public Information. SDIA is also a participating member of CONGO – the Conference of NGOs in Consultative Status with the UN Economic and Social Council. 2007 saw active participation at the UN: Katherine Carré, Joe Rosario (India), Raphael Bate (France) attended meetings in Geneva and Taufik Waage

- The High-level Dialogue of the General Assembly on Interreligious and Intercultural Understanding and Cooperation for Peace (October)
- General Assembly of the Conference of Non-governmental Organizations in Consultative Relationship with the UN (CONGO) (December).

In an effort to stimulate youth participation at the UN, SDIA supported the candidacy of Rasjidah Flores as a youth delegate for Mexico at the 62nd Session of the UN General Assembly in New York. SDIA was active with the World Women's Summit Foundation's coalition of 781 organisations to commemorate the World Day for the Prevention of Child Abuse on November 19th, 2007.

Our thanks go to the Guerrand Hermes Foundation for Peace for their financial assistance for United Nations participation in 2007. This allowed a number of SDIA/WSA representatives to attend UN meetings, and SDIA to function as the secretariat for the World Subud Association on relations with the UN. Our thanks also to SDIA's permanent representatives to the United Nations who in 2007 were: Katherine Carré, Illene Pevec, Imbert Mathee, Amalia Rasheed, Fred-eric Richard, Rohana Laing, Virginia Thomas and Victor Margolin.

Research and Publications

Research and Publications are key elements in meeting SDIA's goals to increase our learning and knowledge as a Network, and to ensure that good practices and lessons learned can be shared between our members and with the international community of practitioners. On the Governance and Development Project, SDIA worked as part of an international team to develop and conduct a survey of projects that are actively influencing governance within the context of their activities at the community, regional and national levels.

Members from the SD network participating in the Governance and Development project are: the International Child Development Program from Colombia, Mithra Foundation from India, Asociación Vivir and Inka Samana Indigenous School from Ecuador, Quest Center for Integrated Health from the USA, and A Child's Garden of Peace from Brazil. This research project is funded by the Guerrand Hermes Foundation for Peace.

2007 saw the launch of the SDIA Notes from the Field series. These publications are written by project leaders and capture the lessons learned from their project experience. The Notes are edited and made available to other members of the network and the public. In 2007, the first 3 issues were published:

Slum Dwellers of Chennai: Indigenous Health Practices, S.A. Samy (India)

Key to Sustainable Development: Solutions from the Jungle of Central Kalimantan, B. Paul, (Indonesian Borneo)

Human Rights Education Program in Karnataka, India, J. Rosario (India).

Other publications were:

Widening our Footprint: Where is the network going?

Working with Community, A regional report from Colombia

ICDP's Work in Traslasierra and Despertar Foundation, Argentina

Two Perspectives on the UN Civil Society Forum, Bate and Rosario

The SDIA brochure describing the work of the SD Network

The SD Network eNews, our main method of sharing information about the activities of the network, is produced monthly. In 2007 thirteen eNews newsletters were distributed in English and Spanish.

SDIA Members in 2007

SDIA exists to serve and support its members and encourage new members to join the international network. In 2007 there were twenty-two national SD organisations that were voting members and forty-four projects that were associate members. New members to the network in 2007 are SD Ireland, SD Serbia's Schools without Violence Project and Puppeteers without Borders from France.

SDIA Members by Area of Activity

National Susila Dharma Organisations work together to support projects through partnerships and to promote global awareness in their countries. These are active in Argentina, Australia, Britain, Canada, Chile, Colombia, Cuba, DR Congo, France, Germany, India, Indonesia, Ireland, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Portugal, Serbia, Spain, Suriname, Ukraine and USA.

Susila Dharma Projects are locally initiated and work in four broad development areas. Some projects overlap in areas of activity and, to avoid duplication, are listed here in terms of primary focus and geographical region.

SDIA member projects focussed on Child Development and Education:

- build knowledge about child development in parents and childcare professionals, and improve interaction between caregivers and children
- improve access to, as well as the quality and relevance of, education to transform lives and societies for the better
- undertake small-scale improvements to school infrastructure and increase access to equipment, books and learning materials
- develop new and innovative teaching methods that enable children to reach their full human potential

Africa: Albadi, Groupe Scolaire SD Lemba Imbu, L'École Nkembo, (DR Congo).

Asia: Anisha Foundation, Center for Culture and Development, Mithra Foundation (India), Bina Cita Utama School, Sekolah Cita Buana (Indonesia).

Americas: Fundacion Despertar (Argentina), Child's Garden of Peace (Brazil), Fundación Amanecer, Fundación El Refugio, Fundación Educativa Amor (Colombia), Fundación Vida Plena (Paraguay), My Neighborhood International, Seven Circles Retreat Center, Teen Moms & Tuning In (USA).

SDIA member activities in Community Health and Well-Being:

- provide access to better nutrition, sanitation, health awareness and medical services through schools, clinics and community centres
- provide health education and nutritional programs in schools
- identify community-based solutions to preventable diseases and hazards such as malnutrition, land-mines, malaria and HIV/AIDS
- empower individuals and communities to take an active role in their own healthcare

Africa: Centre de Santé Nkandu, Dispensaire Maternity Kimvumu, L'École Médicale de Kimpemba, Polyclinique Nandora-Vunguta, Yenge Health Centre (DR Congo).

Americas: Asociación Vivir (Ecuador), American Overseas Medical Aid Association, Clear Path International, Quest Center for Integrated Health (USA), The Q Fund (USA-Zambia).

SDIA member project active with Community Development and Sustainable Livelihoods:

- promote the use of community participatory approaches to development
- build vocational, literacy and work-related skills
- provide opportunities for adult education, rehabilitation and social integration
- develop micro-savings and loan schemes that empower women and men to be more effective providers for their families

Asia: Atam Deep Foundation, SRADHA (India), Dayak Culture Project, Yayasan Tambuhak Sinta, Yayasan Usuha Mulia - 6 projects (Indonesia), Whakapuare (New Zealand).

Americas: SINTRAL (Ecuador), Women's Prison Project (Argentina), Bellingham Community Meals (USA), Europe: Fountain Housing Association (UK).

SDIA members with a primary focus on the Environment:

- increase the use of alternative energy for school, clinics and communities, and benefits to indigenous communities
- promote sustainable organic agriculture to lower costs for farmers and reduce the negative impact of chemicals on humans and the environment
- reduce dependence on inefficient wood burning and other practices which damage the environment and endanger human health
- preserve wilderness areas

Americas: Altai Conservancy (active in Russia).

Europe: Sun For Life (active in Madagascar).

WHO WE ARE

Susila Dharma International is an association of twenty-two National organisations and forty-four development projects from 24 countries. Members of the Association are dedicated to relieving human suffering and promoting just and sustainable development through:

- partnerships and support for grass-roots, participatory development and humanitarian initiatives
- empowering individuals and communities to engage in human, social and economic development
- raising awareness of global issues and inter-dependence.

Yayasan Tambuhak Sinta (YTS) assists with village development in Central Kalimantan, Indonesia.

The Association was founded in 1969 and is an affiliate organisation of the World Subud Association. Susila Dharma International is a US-registered non-profit organisation that holds special consultative status with the United Nations Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC), UNICEF and Department of Public Information (DPI). US Charitable tax No. 98-0156249.

This Annual Report covers the 2007 activities of the international SDIA Office in service to its members. It does not cover the activities and achievements of all 66 members. 2007 Annual Reports of Network members are available at <http://susiladharm.org>.

SDIA ENDOWMENT FUND

The SDIA Endowment Fund was set up in 2000 to provide long term funding for ongoing operations so that SDIA can continue to support the many worthwhile projects run by its members. Donations to the Fund become part of the Fund's asset base and only the income generated by these assets is used. The Fund's assets are managed by Morgan Stanley Investment Advisors and the allocation of income from the Fund is administered by a committee of SDIA's board of directors.

Please Support the work of Susila Dharma International!
